

KAP Cancellation & Refund Policy

Cancellation: if you cannot attend a workshop or online class, you may immediately notify the instructor and ask to transfer to a future class or workshop with the same instructor.

In the rare event that an instructor must reschedule a workshop, students may similarly ask to take either an online class with the same instructor, or a future workshop with the same instructor.

POLICY ON REFUNDS: As of 11/11/11, we offer no longer offer refunds, only credits to transfer into a later session of the same online class, workshop, or intensive with the same instructor. If you are registered for a workshop, you may transfer to a future workshop or to an online class, and if you register for an online class, you may transfer to take the same material online or in a workshop in the future. This is true for all of our classes and workshops. You may request special dispensation to take the class with a different instructor, but please understand that registrations pay the instructors or their companies directly. There are no refunds on personal shaktipat sessions.

Due to a large number of abuses during the recent fiscal downturn, we no longer offer a money-back guarantee on new registrations...

A recent plague of individuals registering with the intention of downloading the supplemental course materials for free, then demanding a refund without actually attending the interactive course, even doing chargebacks without attending, has made it impossible to continue offering the guarantee.

Our guarantee was a good faith offer, and for years it was honored and rarely abused by registrants. In recent months, that has changed. We work very hard on behalf of our students, past, present, and future, both during the course, and offering hours of follow-up afterwards. We will not tolerate dishonest dealings with our time and materials.

Intellectual Property:

All text, video, and audio, both pre-recorded and live, included as a part of the course, including text and audio/video chats, is copyrighted, and made available only to the individual who has paid for the course, for personal use only. Materials are not to be duplicated, ripped, re-uploaded, bit-torrented or otherwise fileshared, shared on forums or private servers, or played for other individuals, groups, or the general public, without the express written permission of the author(s) and copyright holder(s). No individuals are to represent themselves as teachers, instructors, or facilitators of these materials without being formally certified as such by the first generation of KAP instructors certified by Dr. Morris, and acknowledged publicly on this site as such...
